

Roundhouse

Founded by architects, we are independent British designers and furniture makers whose approach embraces the house, the home and the whole creative process – from concept to completion. The work you’ll see here was devised and built by our dedicated teams, with furniture designed and created in our own factory.

Because we bring design vision and an architectural perspective to bear on every detail, there’s a much greater scope to what Roundhouse can do. We design spaces for living, marrying a contemporary aesthetic with timeless elegance; combining traditional craftsmanship with the latest technology; and providing an ever-evolving choice of materials, colours, fittings and styles.

In short, we create beautiful furniture to suit the most exacting requirements of any client. It’s this freedom to design for each individual that makes Roundhouse truly different, and every project unique. Crafted by us - and inspired by you.

Each project in this book details the following key design features:

Style / Finish / Worktop

Butler

A big space demands ambitious design: exactly what this kitchen delivers. Featuring a mix of metal finishes and bold colour, a dramatic full-height backdrop defines the room. The multifunctional chef’s island discreetly gathers the latest high-tech kitchen gadgets, perfect for creating delicious meals at home. Bronze ironmongery with hand-finished antique brass panelling and detail adds a gorgeous and subtle extra dimension.

5

Bottom House Farm

Bags of space and statement textures are the standout features here: part of a stunning conversion in the Berkshire countryside. Doors open onto the terrace, a woodburning stove offers winter comfort, while the dramatic and practical island helps organise a generous and flexible room, one designed to be seen and enjoyed on any occasion.

It's the combination of materials that really sings. Alongside reused elements from the original barn, plus polished concrete worktops and patinated corrugated iron, we added an unexpected canvas of colour and contrast - through the stunning Lilac Milas marble splashback.

11

Warwick

Packed with ingenious touches that maximise light and space, this beautiful design cleverly turns an ordinary basement into a luxurious and functional kitchen. Featuring an elegant walk-in pantry and sleek island with antique brass, the careful mix of materials - including Leathered White Fantasy quartzite worktop and eucalyptus bookmatched veneer on the floor-to-ceiling storage - creates a serene and stylish feel.

15

Robinson

Featuring specially made glass wall cabinets - mirrored, delicately backlit and brass-fronted, and complemented by a stunning antique brass metal centrepiece - this design transports you to a timeless zone of luxury and elegance. The island has a textured African Fusion worktop with a sharknose profile: a dramatic feature that echoes the tone of the full-height cabinetry, while creating a winning contrast with softer shades across sink areas and other surfaces. Add in textures and colour from wooden shelf and drawer details, and it's a space that will bathe you in a warm glow every day.

19

Oliver

This remarkable space is filled with natural light, splashes of invigorating colour, and a sense of play. To meet our clients’ need for contrast we paired garden and house plants with a fresh botanical green, while matching stainless-steel and rough-sawn oak to the doors and beams. Extending the island creates plenty of space for breakfast seating and entertaining. The overall result blends an energising feel with warm, inviting details: a room that can be as serene or as vibrant as the occasion requires.

25

Sondergaard

A touch of Scandinavia comes to Notting Hill in this stunning and beautifully simple design. Its unique showpiece is our exquisitely crafted statement island: clad in Calacatta Manhattan marble, and complete with a heated cantilever table that incorporates ingenious storage drawers. Perfect for chopping, sitting and socialising, the island is paired with the worktop and splashback, and complemented perfectly by cabinetry in a light matt lacquer.

30 —
31

Avenue

This show-stopping family kitchen boasts a series of Roundhouse firsts and unique features. Designed in precise harmony with the architecture of the rest of the home, it includes a bespoke triangular sink and angular crystals set in the worktop - an echo of triangular skylights above. The worktop itself, in beautiful Patagonia Natural quartzite, takes centre stage with a bespoke internal lighting system built to bring out its natural glow.

To toast the stunning effect, look no further than custom-made wine storage, plus a special hanging brass rack that keeps bottles and glasses perfectly arranged - and neatly out of the reach of youngsters.

37

Smillie

Effortlessly elegant, this exquisite design echoes period features of this Primrose Hill home - including a beautiful spiral staircase. Bright and open, it features state-of-the-art Gaggenau appliances, ingenious storage, and cabinetry in Farrow & Ball Shadow White – while Calacatta Manhattan marble provides sudden dashes of flair.

42 —
43

Rodenhurst

Our clients’ eye for detail and colour helped shape this remarkable design, where accents of pink and copper add style and flair. The space balances practical, hardwearing materials, open design and generous storage with flashes of brilliance and intense colour from hinges, handles, taps and other furniture - including a floating shelf above the hob and an ingenious copper mirror.

It delivers everything this busy family home demands - including a drinks area and walk-in pantry - all while dashes of colour add a unique personal stamp.

Hania

A masterclass in understated elegance, this project included the transformation of the kitchen, bedrooms, and study. The contemporary kitchen boasts antique brass metal wall units, with a clever bi-fold lift, while the oak bookmatched-veneer island adds warmth and depth. To complete the sense of effortless style, the island's stone worktop overhangs one side, floating mid-air above the cabinetry.

52 —
53

Hardings

Set within a beautiful converted barn, this kitchen strikes a harmonious balance between traditional and modern - seamlessly blending original lintels and beams with smart contemporary furniture. Inspired by the house’s architecture, the large Nightingale display cabinet creates the perfect backdrop for a striking two-tier island in the centre of the space. Keen cooks, our clients specified a large space for entertaining and the result is a generous, practical and stylish room - with sinks, appliances and the main cooking and prep areas all discreetly tucked away next to the larder.

Urbo & Metro / Bookmatched Veneer & Patinated Silver Lacquer / Granite & Composite Stone

Frameless Classic / Matt Lacquer / Stainless Steel (prep kitchen)

Clarendon Road

To make the most of the entire ground-floor space in this West London home, we crafted a seamless combination of two distinct Roundhouse styles. Our traditional Shaker furniture sets the tone in the kitchen and office areas; while elements of our Handleless designs add a bold, modern twist. Crafted using natural Arabescato marble and antique brass, the island creates the focal point that brings together this fusion of styles.

Frameless Classic & Urbo / Matt Lacquer & Antique Brass Metal / Bookmatched Veneer (desk) / Stainless Steel & Marble

Brand

This remarkable project called for the complete transformation of a whole corner of the family home: to feature a new boot room, utility and desk areas, and a walk-in pantry as well as the kitchen. Keen cooks, the family also specified high-end appliances, which include a Bora Pro double extraction setup with Teppanyaki.

The result is as practical as it is luxurious, combining bold features like the glazed cabinetry and mirrored splashback with a delicate palette: as details in antique brass metal and bronze complement a warm backdrop of muted pink.

71

Howell

An extraordinary balancing act, this is a bold contemporary space that brilliantly matches the period details of this West London home. As if by magic, one side of the kitchen ‘floats’ in the air: an entire run of cabinets that are entirely wall-hung and topped by stunning Calacatta porcelain wall cladding. It’s the careful pairing of these bold features with simple materials and understated finishes - including a fresh colour scheme - that allows the cabinetry to shine.

77

Brooks

Exuding class and understated luxury, this sleek design is all about the showstopping island. Running the full length of the room, it dominates the view from inside and out - and impresses from any angle, with extra-wide pan drawers and striking African Fusion Quartzite wraps to bookend it perfectly.

The secret to keeping this stunning space looking beautiful day-to-day? A fully equipped back pantry, which takes storage pressures and countertop appliances out of the equation.

81

A timeless kitchen for a period style new-build property. The grandeur of the architecture suited a classic Shaker design with a contemporary twist: all achieved without stinting on the functions and features a hardworking family kitchen demands, including multiple cooking areas, drinks fridge and breakfast area, and separate sinks.

Clean lines and elegant colour tones create a modern feel, offsetting the more traditional details, while the Sub Zero fridge, freezer and wine-cooler combination lends the space a pro-kitchen flavour. Elsewhere, a standalone bi-folding breakfast cabinet keeps gadgets and appliances tucked away, or opens up to add a note of contrast, revealing the warm wooden textures inside.

Cheung

Can a knockout modern kitchen harmonise with Listed 19th-century architecture? Visit one former Dock Master’s House in London and you’ll be in no doubt that it can. Symmetry and sympathy were the watchwords for this project, which features an antique brass metal island curved to match the bay window, and a wealth of discreetly organised appliances and storage space - including a large fridge and several ovens.

91

Jones

Where a passion for cooking meets a passion for bespoke design. Incorporating a commercial-style extractor, outsized Sub Zero fridge and Wolf cooker, salamander grill and utensil rails, this space was devised and meticulously crafted to allow our clients to fulfil their ambitions in the kitchen: giving them the space and scope to take on any occasion, and putting everything they might need within easy reach. A robust, industrial aesthetic is balanced out by the warmer tones of walnut solid timber and natural stone.

95

Meard Street

A blend of timeless luxury and natural materials that’s truly one of a kind. Standout features include the African Fusion worktops, designed to complement the beautiful fireplace, and the antique brass metal detailing of the cabinetry. To make full use of the space, a stunning larder adds plenty of storage.

100 —
101

Kaye

A design fit for the host with the most. This modern kitchen serves an enduring passion for food, large-scale entertaining, fine wine and coffee. A seating area on the island and large dining table were incorporated, alongside a bench seat for more relaxed eating and conversation, as well as a cosy spot where children can read while food is prepared. Ample storage was added, including a large bar and wine coolers in the dining area. To make the most of the natural light, an intense palette blends copper with dark wood and stone.

Design Wardrobes

A custom-made wardrobe has the remarkable power to change the feel of each space - and change the way you live. Create all the storage you need, crafted to bring a touch of joy and beauty into every moment.

From simple drawers to full-height wardrobe units - equipped with everything from mirrors and internal lighting to L-shaped rails for corners and special hinges that keep pathways clear - these designs allow you to organise and care for clothes and belongings properly, while transforming storage space into a calming and beautiful canvas within each room.

Flexible, functional, ingenious - and always exquisitely made.

Mangat

Getting the balance right when it comes to storage and style? There’s an art to it, one that begins in conversation and careful planning. For this remarkable space, we knew our clients were serious about cooking so we worked hard to maximise the flexibility and practicality of the room. Deep pan drawers, high-capacity cooling, extra storage around the island - it’s all here; but the bold, two-tone palette allows everything to recede into place, preserving a generous sense of light and air around the centre of the room. Beautiful finishes, including knurled brass handles and open metallic shelving, add an essential extra touch of refinement and flair.

Gould

It's all about the added touches here, from the silver antique mirror splashback to the inventive island - which houses a built-in banquette seating and dining area. Pops of yellow bring everything to life, complemented perfectly by matt lacquer finishes on the cabinetry. An elegant kitchen that makes best use of its space at every turn.

Martin

A truly inspiring example of what can be achieved with our Studio range, this is a masterclass in materiality and minimalism. Practical features include the countertop breakfast cupboard with bi-fold doors, and a flush-fit hob with Teppanyaki plate and downdraft extraction. However, it's the dynamic interplay between ultra-smooth graphite grey finishes, textural concrete-look worktops, and beautiful Bronze metal lacquer that makes the whole space sing. Another standout feature? How about the built-in bar that connects kitchen and living spaces, featuring Antique Bronze glass mirrors and solid walnut shelving: all the exclusivity of a private members' bar, without ever leaving home.

135

Winterbourne

Clean and simple, but with warm finishes, this design is composed to maximise space and add interest throughout. A modern aesthetic opens the room, with a sleek island - finished in Eternal Statuario Suede worktop - offering ample space for prep and socialising. Accentuated with LED diffused lighting on the hob run and island, this kitchen brings a luxurious, modern feel to the heart of East London.

Urbo & Metro / Smooth Matt & Textured Finish / Composite Stone

Carey Newton

Showcasing perfectly how form, function and beauty can work together, this classy and pared-back kitchen sits within a large open-plan living area. A range of gorgeous materials combine to make the most of that space: adding a bold expanse of texture and colour. The design features Composite Concrete worktops and a special polished plaster wall, while internal wood throughout the drawers creates an extra layer of warmth.

Stuart

Clear, calm and uncluttered, this kitchen creates a soft, luxurious feel inside a naturally bright room. The texture and tone of the dark finish create a warmth to the space - helped by the brass tap and kitchen lighting. The marble composite adds to the tactile nature of the kitchen and reflects back the light. Standard wall cabinets make way for a stone shelf, to further simplify and soften the space, while providing a home for artwork, herbs, or accessories.

Steeple Court

A bright, modern kitchen with a timeless touch of class. Making the most of an airy, high-ceilinged space, it features a beautifully balanced and sculptural island - where a clever two-level table allows gorgeous stone to wrap the centre. A symmetrically organised wall of cabinets frames the hob, while the sophisticated colour scheme pairs subtle tones with regular pops of rich colour from brass handles.

Grean

This contemporary design shows exactly how to pack bags of character into a generous space. A standout feature is the huge island with textured Kinawi White Piracema Granite worktop. Symmetry was key to the concept: with a central sink at the rear, and a second sink bookending the main horizontal lines. There's no shortage of storage space too, with specific pull-out drawers for crockery and cutlery as well as a pantry store. Wall units are clever bi-folding lift-ups, making it easy to put everything away from the dishwasher below.

Chapman

Cleverly planned to suit an unusually wide house, this bold monochromatic design incorporates a stunning panoramic view of the garden and a fully open, split-level scheme: helping our clients take care of their young children while they cook or entertain. An elegant, L-shaped bar in stained solid timber makes full use of the floor space, and connects with floating cabinetry on the island. Integrated appliances and a dual-flow kitchen layout mean the cook can engage equally with living and dining areas.

Studio Wardrobes

Our Studio approach includes a selection of wardrobes that can help transform any part of your home, bringing calm and effortless style to each space.

Wardrobe storage deserves as much attention to detail as kitchen storage, after all with the right planning, you can create a beautifully organised room, where there really is a place for everything.

Choose from an exquisite but practical range of finishes and features to create spaces that don't just work superbly, but are crafted to match your tastes and lifestyle.

Manufacturing

British Made
We’ve worked hard since our inception to keep direct control of how our furniture is produced, and to maintain a space where we can innovate new designs, products and finishes. Our factory in the Malvern Hills and its close-knit team remain at the heart of everything we do.

Expertly Crafted
Everything we make is designed with exceptional care and built to last. Roundhouse is where traditional British joinery and the best materials meet precision engineering and the latest technology. We are proud to manufacture to order, making furniture to specific sizes and in a huge range of finishes. It’s our experience and skill in production and design throughout the home that enable the flexibility and flair you’ll find in each project.

Leading Trends
We’re known for our ability to reflect and shape the latest ideas in kitchen, interior, and furniture design. Our dedication and passion mean we are continually striving to find new ways to create beautiful kitchens and furniture that will look as good tomorrow as they do today.

To see how Roundhouse Design could bring out the best in your home, call or visit one of our UK showrooms, or email: sales@roundhousedesign.com

We offer an initial planning service free of charge, just bring any drawings or measurements if you have them.

Every project is unique; but the way we work follows the same principles:

Led by design
Roundhouse is all about you. It’s about making beautiful furniture that’s right for each individual and space. We’re open, plain-speaking people who will work closely with you - and your architect or interior designer if you have one - to ensure both the overall plan and every specification are spot-on.

Made responsibly in Britain
Roundhouse furniture is created at our own factory in the heart of the Malvern Hills. We use only the best, responsibly-sourced timbers, and we have a tree-planting scheme that puts back for tomorrow what we take from the environment today.

Concept to completion
We take responsibility for every stage of the process - from first sketch to finishing touches. Your dedicated installation co-ordinator will oversee all aspects of the final build; and once the work is complete, our specialists can even come round to show you how to get the most from your new appliances, and how best to care for your worktops and furniture.
